Where will I find my sanctuary? How do we deal with what is "strange"? Who has got the choice? These questions are turning radical in 2017. Societies are at the edge. What was certain for a long time is getting subjected to negotiation.

The Summer School 2017 will address these questions with commitment and dedication. More than 500 students and doctoral students from all over the world have already announced to take part. Over 100 lecturers and facilitators are planning a wide range program right now. Representatives from the academia, from the political and economical sphere and from religious institutions will provide their expertise. Together, we will frame and deal with the issues of the future. No longer waiting: Enough.

35 seminars, workshops, public presentations and rounds of talks will make Wittenberg become a future lab. There are still last minute places for students and doctoral students to take part. No matter if you would rather like to join for one day or for a week: The Summer School 2017 is the place to be: to think, to argue and to celebrate within the Reformation Summer. We care about the big questions. The future turns out to be concerning me.

500 years ago, protestant reformers became the midwives of a new age. Hammer and quill, printing press and leaflets made their ideals spread like wildfire. They laid all of their energy into the power of the word. Which times do we bear in these late modern times? What is our hammer and what is our quill? What is our printing press and leaflet? What is our power of the word?

From May 15th on, students and doctoral students from all over the world can apply for vacancies on the Summer School 2017. The Summer School 2017 takes place from July, 24th to August, 20th. The program includes courses from one to eight days of duration. Generous suppliers make it possible to take part at a low price or even for free. On summerschool2017.org, you find all information on the program, on the registration procedure and on scholarship options.
